MANY KILLED IN STORMS AT SEA AND IN EUROPE

The British Isles Again Pounded By Gales: Shipping Hit

BY UNITED PRESS
The British Isles and European coast were pounded again today by severe storms which have disrupted shipping all week.

The English Channel and the Atlantic coastal ships off Spain and Portugal suffered most severely. At least 26 persons were dead in the British Isles; a score of lives were estimated lost in Spain and three were known dead in Portugal.

Seven were known dead in the British Isles and 19 lost at sea, in addition to the missing crew of the steamship Rader which carried a crew of 20 or 25 men it was seen to sink in the Bristol Channel.

Seventeen steamships were in difficulties this morning, some of them sinking. They ranged from the Blue Star liner Andalucia Star, which was buffeted in the Channel with 310 persons aboard, to small freighters.

Fishing boats were wrecked from the English coast to Portugal. Sailing was paralyzed between England and France as the gale continued to stir tempestuous seas in the Channel.

Floods in Portugal and England added to the loss of life and property.

London, Dec. 7.—(UP)—Fierce storms which battered the British, French, Spanish and Portuguese coasts all week reached a new peak of violence today with heavy loss of life and vast damage to ships caught in the grip of terrific gales and rain.

Seventeen steamships filled the air with SOS calls this morning, one of them the Blue Star liner Andalucia Star which was helpless in the English Channel with 310 persons aboard.

Four vessels were sinking or in such desperate circumstances that their crews took to lifeboats. Many small fishing boats off England, Spain and Portugal were missing or wrecked.

England's Dead 24
The death toll in England alone is at least 24. The British Admiralty announced the powerful tug Retort had been sent to aid the Andalucia Star, which was slowly making its way towards Falmouth after temporary repairs.

The crew of the Dutch steamer Merrie, which was beached near Seaford, was rescued. The Italian steamship Carmona wireless that it was sinking in the Channel. The crew was rescued by a tugboat.

The crew of 19 men of the French steamer Orna II was rescued by means of rocket apparatus and lifeboats after the ship stranded off Cudden Point.

The other ships in distress included:

Other Ships In Distress
The Hungarian freighter Hoveved, in trouble off Brighton.

The steamship Arklow was almost a day overdue at Waterford and grave fears were held for its safety.

The Alfonso Percy sent out an SOS call from five miles southeast of Smiths Knoll. The Spanish steamer Glad Amee reported itself in need of immediate assistance off the Portuguese coast.

At least a score and probably 30 small boats were ashore at the mouth of the Cuchmer river, near Seaford.

The Spanish steamer Jory, tossed by the storm in mid-channel, sent out an SOS call.

The Norwegian ship Don was ashore at Aberavon Beach.

The British freighter Neville was ashore off the Selly Islands and a tug and lifeboat went to its assistance.

An unidentified steamship was ashore off Newhaven, where a lifeboat crew went to aid it.

The Holland freighter Dervik was stranded off the Spanish coast, not far from Ferrol and the small ships Beatriz, Teresa and Oviendi were wrecked at the Ferrol harbor entrance.

The Spanish cruiser Principe Alfonso broke its moorings at Ferrol and crashed into the Battleship Jaime Primo. The little Italian freighter San Marco was grounded near Portsmouth.

LOST WITH CREW
London, Dec. 7.—(UP)—The British steamship Rader of 2357 tons, was reported to have sunk with all hands today in the Bristol Channel.

The Rader carried a crew of 20 or 25 men.

The ship was seen to disappear off Hartland Point and it was feared that all hands had been lost.

The Rader previously had reported by wireless that it was sinking and that the crew was having difficulty in launching life boats. It gave its position as off Hartland Point.

After a delay of four hours the weather cleared and he continued his flight to Rochester where he spent the night and made the remainder of the trip the next day with the temperature several degrees below zero.

Mr. Schnell says that his Monocoupe worked perfectly even while flying through heavy snow falls and blizzards at a zero temperature. On the return trip better weather favored him and he made good time, making the last hop from Rochester, Minn., to his landing field near Lee Center in the remarkable time of only two hours and 50 minutes.

PAVEMENTS SLIPPERY

Drivers of automobiles without chains were as the mercy of the elements on both state highways and city streets today. The slippery condition of the roads increased about 9 o'clock and many cars tied up at Dixon to await an improvement in conditions.

The street departments had sprinkled the Galena avenue hill from River street yesterday but the sand was covered with ice this morning and drivers were very cautious for some time until the ice had loosened. In several instances cars not equipped with chains could not move and tow cars were summoned from garages to put them in motion. During the forenoon, some drivers who started out of the city on state highways, turned back and abandoned their trips because of the slippery and dangerous condition of the highways.

GOODFELLOW DONATIONS ARE LAGGING

Club Has Big Job To Tackle And Needs Cash A-Plenty

Father Richard C. Talbott ..... 1.00
Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Todd ..... 5.00
Total ..... $67.00

Goodfellow donations are slowing up and appeals to the Goodfellow club are increasing, which makes a very bad combination. We are sure there are enough Goodfellows in Dixon to give a happy Christmas to every poor kid in the city, but we want those Goodfellows to hurry up and make themselves known.

The Goodfellow Club has a big job ahead and there is nothing that will expedite this work so well as prompt donations. If you intend to be a Goodfellow this year please let us know about it as soon as possible.

We have a letter from a little boy who writes that he would like to have a pair of overalls to wear to school and that his baby brother wants a rattle, he calls it. He suggests that a little candy wouldn't hurt anything and winds up his letter by saying "and if you have any toys for me all right and if not all right. Goodbye." Now, you Goodfellows of other years, do you want that kid to miss out on his Christmas this year?

VAN PETTEN GARAGE AND STORE BURNED OUT LAST NIGHT WITH $20,000 LOSS

Eighteen Cars Burn: Some Store Stock Carried Out

The one-story concrete garage and two-story brick store and flat building owned by Mrs. Elmer E. Hess and son at Van Petten were completely gutted by fire last night entailing a loss of between $15,000 and $20,000, partially covered by insurance.

The cause of the blaze, which apparently started in the basement of the garage, was undetermined today. It was discovered about 10:30 o'clock and spread so rapidly that a call was sent the Sterling fire department at 10:45; that department responding with a pumper, which however was of little avail because of lack of water in Van Petten.

When the Sterling firemen arrived the fire had swept into the upper floor of the store building, occupied by the Hess family as living quarters, and soon ate its way into the store room below. Some of the stock in the store was carried out safely, but none of the household goods were saved, and in the garage, in addition to the equipment eight new Ford cars, a Lincoln, and nine used Fords were consumed.

The fire was plainly visible for many miles around, the sky being brightly illuminated by the blaze.

Chicago Was Under Cloud Pall Today

Chicago, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A black pall of cloud, dark as a moonless night, settled over Chicago at 10:30 A. M., today with foreboding of the promised fall of snow that was to bring a fresh visit of winter tonight.

So deep was the shroud that motorists turned on their headlights along the slippery streets, air beacons were lighted and the downtown Rialto took on its nightly semblance of the Great White Way.

The cloud was expected to bring snow to Chicago and rain or snow to most of the middle and northwest. The sub-zero wave that started down from the Canadian northwest yesterday was tempered a bit today, but along the Canadian border the mercury sank overnight to 10 degrees below zero at Moorhead, Minn., and Devil's Lake, N. D. Throughout the border states the temperature was near zero, and up in the provinces thermometer readings were as low as 16 below zero at Winnipeg and 30 below at White River, Ont.

The mercury was slightly above freezing at Chicago today but the scum of ice on the streets made traffic dangerous, particularly during the morning spell of gloom. Colder weather was forecast for the Chicago area tonight but the mercury was expected to remain in the upper twenties and the zero reign in Minnesota and the Dakotas was expected to lose its grip.

Coming Cold Wave To Be Severe One

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Whipped southward from the Canadian plains, a new zero wave tangled the north-west today and brought predictions of snow and colder for most of the middle west.

The impending wintry blast may prove, according to the Chicago Weather Bureau, the most severe in a season already smitten by unseasonable frigidities.

The coldest spot yesterday was Fort Smith on the Great Slave River in Canada where the temperature slid to 32 degrees below. At the Pas, Manitoba, a reading of 26 below was reported.

Snow was driven before the cold winds as they roared across the border into the northwest and at Devil's Lake, N. D., the mercury fell to two degrees below zero.

In some places today, rain was predicted as the forerunner of snow.

SPEED LIQUOR TRIAL

Hammond, Ind., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Attorneys and Judge Thomas W. Slick bent every effort today towards completing the trial of 17 Gary men charged with conspiracy to violate the Federal prohibition law. The trial is being held in Federal District Court.

The defense announced that only a few character witnesses remained, to be heard, but that three or four of the defendants might be put on the stand. Judge Slick said last night that he wanted to finish the case by tonight. The attorneys declined to say who their witnesses would be.

Funeral Of Polo Woman Monday P. M.

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Zollinger will be held from the late residence in Polo Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. D. L. McNary, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Freeport, will have charge of the services. Burial will take place in Fairmont cemetery.

Friday Lucky Day in Life of Patrick J. Hurley

Washington, Dec. 7.—(UP)—Life is just a succession of Fridays for Patrick J. Hurley of Tulsa, Okla., selected by President Hoover to succeed the late James W. Good as Secretary of War. He is 46 and will be the youngest Secretary of War the nation ever has had.

Hurley was born on Friday, Jan. 3, 1883, in the Choctaw Nation, Indian territory. He was graduated from National University here on a Friday, was admitted to the Oklahoma State Bar on a Friday, joined the Army on a Friday and was cited for the Distinguished Service Medal on a Friday.

When Hurley married the daughter of Admiral Henry B. Wilson the calendar said Friday and when he was sworn as Assistant Secretary of War last spring it was Friday again. Yesterday was Friday, and on that day Mr. Hoover sent Hurley's nomination as Secretary of War to the Senate. If Hurley doesn't die on a Friday he will be as surprised as the circumstances of his death will permit.

Hurley is a Catholic and the first southerner Mr. Hoover has selected for full cabinet rank. He is the first Oklahoman to enter any cabinet office. Even Democrats in southwestern states urged Hurley's appointment.

As Assistant Secretary, Hurley was kept in close touch with the Mississippi Valley flood control project which is considered the most difficult matter before the War Department.

It is not customary to select a man who has had military service as Secretary of War and Hurley's 27 years connection with state and federal military units was considered by some persons as an insurmountable bar to appointment. Army officers here were both surprised and pleased by Mr. Hoover's selection.

The Assistant Secretaryship to be relinquished by Hurley probably will go to a man who served in the Army in 1917-18 who is a resident of Iowa, Illinois or Missouri. Selection of a Chicagoan would not be surprising.

Snow Storm Cause Of Thugs' Capture

Superior, Wis., Dec. 7.—(UP)—Three men captured when a snow storm cut off escape confessed today to robbing the Wisconsin State Bank during a meeting of the directors of here yesterday of $2,000 in cash, police announced.

The trio, George Henning, Superior; Edward Koshuck, Joliet, Ill., and Jack Burton, Chicago, had the money in their pockets, police declared.

They had headed for St. Paul when a blinding snow at South Range, Wis., forced them to turn back.

Miss Minnie Furst, Assistant Cashier, defied the bandits' order to hold up her hands, slammed the vault door shut and turned the combination, saving $10,000. She laughed when one robber threatened "I'll blow your head off."

Mr. Campbell, bank president, walked from the directors' room as the robbery was in progress. He attempted to give an alarm but a bullet that grazed his head brought him back with hands over his head.

A. L. Rabbit Hunt Set For Tomorrow

Dixon Post No. 12 of the American Legion will hold their annual rabbit hunt tomorrow. This has become an annual event with the local post and has proven one of much enjoyment to the members. Arrangements have been completed and all that seems necessary now is to get the rabbits for the "feed" which will be held Tuesday night at 7:00 o'clock at the Elks Club. All members of the post who are going to attend are requested to make reservations with Clarence Shaver, phone 515 or Rae A. Arnold, phone 445, not later than Monday noon.

The entertainment for this meeting is going to be very good, not long speeches, but something that will be of interest to all. Full details will be announced Monday night in the columns of the Telegraph.

HAD TOO MANY CLOTHES

East St. Louis, Ill., Dec. 7.—(UP)—It was not cold in East St. Louis yesterday and when Charles McCuskey, 38, appeared to have on too many clothes a patrolman decided he had better investigate.

The investigator revealed McCuskey was clothed in four pairs of gloves and 14 pairs of socks which he admitted he had stolen.

MANCHURIA IS SPEEDING WAY TO GET PEACE

Ousts Head of Chinese Eastern Railroad As Requested

Mukden, Manchuria, Dec. 7.—(UP)—The Manchurian government, after hesitation in accepting the preliminary agreement for peace negotiations with Soviet Russia, moved today to speed the end of the Chinese Eastern Railway dispute.

It was reported that Lu Jung-huan, chief of Chinese Eastern road, had been dismissed by Chang Hsueh-liang, the youthful ruler of Manchuria. The Russians had demanded his dismissal but Manchuria first indicated he would not be ousted.

Chang then gave his representatives, Tsai Yun-Hen, the proper credentials for signing the formal preliminary agreement with the Russians. Tsai said that he had merely initiated the agreement pending approval of the government. Tsai was reported to be preparing to depart for Khabarovsk, Siberia, where the agreement is scheduled to be signed Dec. 12.

Mukden authorities said that the Russian troops would be expected to withdraw simultaneously with the signing of the agreement, and the Chinese Eastern Railroad, which has not operated since July 10, would be re-connected with the Trans-Siberian Railroad.

New Revolution In Mexico Threatened

San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 7.—(AP)—The recent Mexican presidential campaign apparently had been transferred today to the northern side of the Rio Grande, with Jose Vasconcelos, the defeated contender, threatening an insurrection and Pascual Ortiz Rubio, President-elect, belittling Vasconcelos' statement as "of no consequence."

Vasconcelos arrived here yesterday after having been last reported at El Paso Wednesday, when he crossed the border a few hours behind Rubio.

He signaled his appearance in San Antonio by declaring he fled to America to escape "government assassins," and asserting he would return and capture the presidential chair by armed force as soon as his followers could be organized.

Ortiz Rubio, at Hot Spring, Ark., thanked a newspaperman for calling to his attention Vasconcelos' manifesto, and said it was "of no consequence" and advised that it be allowed to occasion no worry.

"The President-elect," said his secretary spokesman, "knows the source from which it came."

Vasconcelos' advent at San Antonio was preceded by issuance of a manifesto by the former Secretary of the Anti-Revolutionist party, of which Vasconcelos was the candidate. Funds are already available, the manifesto said, for financing the revolution "without outside aid."

Ask Disbarment Of Former Prosecutor

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 7.—(UP)—Disbarment proceedings were filed in State Supreme Court here today by the Illinois Bar Association against Arlie O. Boswe, formerly State's Attorney of Williamson county.

Boswe, now serving a two year sentence in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas, for alleged conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law, is accused of accepting money from defendants in liquor cases.

An echo of the recent expose of alleged racketeering by the Secretary of State's office was heard in the Supreme Court today with the filing of a petition by Arthur P. Steuben, Chicago, requesting that his name be stricken from the roll of attorneys.

Steuben, with two employees of the Secretary of State's office, was alleged to have promised corporations certain savings for a consideration. Steuben formerly was assistant chief clerk in the Secretary of State's office. The two employees involved were discharged.

Senate Committee Reports Tax Bill

Washington, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The senate finance committee today reported favorably on the $160,000,000 tax reduction resolution.

The committee action was unanimous.

The resolution, previously approved by the House, proposes a one per cent reduction in the tax rates on individual and corporation incomes.

Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader and a member of the committee, said after the meeting that while he had not definitely decided to call the measure up in the Senate Monday he believed this would be done. He added he did not look for serious opposition.

Under Secretary Mills of the Treasury appeared before the committee and explained in detail the proposed reduction.

Text of Hoover Message Sent To Congress Today.

Washington, Dec. 7.—(UP)—President Hoover's message to Congress on Haitian situation said:

"To the Congress of the United States:

"In my message to Congress of the 3rd inst., I indicated my concern as to the future of our policies in Haiti. I stated that we had there about 700 Marines and that we were confronted with a difficult problem the solution of which is still obscure. I further stated that if Congress approves I shall dispatch a commission to Haiti to review and study the matter in an endeavor to arrive at some more definite policy than at present.

"Our representatives in Haiti have shown great ability and devotion and have accomplished signal results in the improvement of the material condition of that people. Yet our experience has revealed more clearly than was seen at first the difficulties of the problem, and the entire situation should be reviewed in the light of this experience.

"Since the dispatch of my message, disturbances in Haiti emphasized the importance of such an investigation and determination of national policies in the immediate future.

"The students at the Agricultural School at Famen went on a strike on October 31st as a protest against a new policy of the Haitian government. The Haitian government had heretofore allotted $10,000 per annum to this school for scholarship but this year it withheld $2,000 of the appropriation in order to make it possible for needy students to perform practical school work on the grounds. Sympathetic strikes were subsequently declared in the medical and law schools. President Borno appointed a committee of Haitians to inquire into the matter and it seemed probable at the time that recommendations presented by this committee and accepted by the authorities would adjust the difficulty. Unfortunately, advantage was taken of the situation by various agencies to foment disturbances against the Haitian administration and on December 3rd the American High Commissioner reported that the strike movement had spread throughout the country and that it was feared that the Haitian employees of the departments under American treaty officials might become involved.

"On December 4 custom house employees at Port au Prince abandoned their work in a disorderly manner and crowds have gathered in Port au Prince. At the same time there were reported demonstrations by crowds at Cape Haitien in sympathy with the disturbance in Port au Prince. The American High Commissioner reported that on the morning of December 4 it was feared that disorderly conditions would arise at Aux Cayes and similar disturbances were possible at other places.

"The High Commissioner has asked that additional Marines be in readiness to make sure that if the situation becomes serious American lives will be protected, and the force he has suggested has been ordered dispatched for that purpose.

"I feel that it is most desirable that the commission mentioned in my message of December 3 be constituted and sent to Haiti without delay and I therefore request the Congress to authorize the immediate sending of such a commission and to appropriate for the purpose $50,000. It is my intention to include one or two members from each house of Congress on this commission."

While the commissioner reported that all was now quiet at Aux Cayes, he disclosed he had arranged for the evacuation of American women and children from the port today by steamer.

Situation Distressing
The Secretary of State described the situation in Haiti as "distressing," but added that it would be dealt with in the light of full publicity.

Mr. Hoover in his message reviewed events leading up to the disturbances and emphasized the importance of the investigation he desired.

Because the Senate was not in session, the President's message was delivered to the House alone. One of the first to comment on the situation was Chairman Britten of the House Naval committee, who said Marines never shoot unless in a special cause and in the line of duty. Representative Garner of Texas, the Democratic leader, described it as "very unfortunate."

"Many people with good reasons have suggested that we get out of countries we do not own," Garner added.

Edwardsville, Ill., Dec. 7.—(AP)—A family of seven brothers and sisters, ranging from two months to ten years in age, has been broken up because their father deserted them.

MARINES EMBARK

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Serving as transport for a battalion of Marines to reinforce those already in Haiti, where recent turbulent conditions have attracted attention of the President and the Navy and State departments, the aircraft flagship Wright was to sail from Hampton Roads today with some 500 Marines Corps officers and men today.

The Wright was loaded with supplies, munitions and men at 10 A. M., and was ready to sail on the afternoon tide about 2:30. Colonel Edward B. Manwaring, commanding the naval base Marine barracks said, a detachment of nearly 300 Marines, with First Lieutenants Lester E. Power and T. Bailey and Second Lieutenants Ray M. Gulick and Walter E. Reeves, commanding details, arrived from Quantico on the Washington steamer at 7:30 A. M. The steamer landed beside the Wright and the detachment went on board the latter at once.

Shortly before 10 A. M., nearly 200 Marines arrived from Parris Island, S. C. by rail. At 10 o'clock all were aboard on the aircraft ship and the battalion was formed under command of Major Louis E. Fagan of the Marine Corps.

The five hundred men will reach Port au Prince probably by Wednesday or Thursday, joining the some 700 Marines now on the island.

One squad of detectives accosted the two men on a corner and began questioning them. The men drew revolvers and opened fire.

NO "GOOD WILL" VALUE
Washington, Dec. 7.—(UP)—Prohibition destroyed the "good will" of thousands of cafes and restaurants where liquor was served, the U. S. Board of Tax Appeals ruled in effect today in refusing to allow "Jack's," one time famous Broadway resort, to deduct an amount from its income tax return for loss of that intangible item.

The board, however, ruled that prior to prohibition Jack's "good will" was worth from $275,000 in 1913 to $500,000 in 1917 and permitted deductions for those years. Its decision overruled an opinion of the Internal Revenue Bureau which had maintained "good will" had no value.

THE WATER-LILY POOL

The water-lily pool—
Oergrown with white and yellow,
Pale lilies nestling on the cool
Calm water, is a mellow
Untroubled haven of delight!
The wide-spread willow bends
Down from her graceful height
To kiss the lilies in their nests of green.
The snow-white swan attends
His lady, as she floats, serene
Yet watchful of her dainty brood.—
Soft fluffy things, forever needing food!

Here tiny tadpoles dwell,
And silvery darting fish as well;
And there, among the reed-fringed parts,
The swift reed-warbler darts.

So fair a spot—this water-lily pool!
When beautiful summer days are hot

The weeping willow is a cool
Retreat; And in the quiet twilight
Before comes darkness of the night,
When the majestic swans are in their nest

And other living things are gone to rest,
Here seems to gently brood
A wondrous quietude!

Major Henri Clerc performed the civil ceremony and two Moslem Imams from Morocco placed Aga Khan's hand into that of the French girl who now becomes the consort of one of the wealthiest Indian princes in the world.

The simple ceremony was performed in the City Hall which was formerly the medieval castle of the reigning Marquis of Aix. It was devoid of pomp or music but there was a profusion of flowers with roses of all colors.

"I am really very happy and especially delighted at the prospects of going to India next spring," said the bride. "It should be very interesting. Before leaving the city hall the bride dropped a check into the poor box, later said to be equivalent to $10,000.

Prairieville P. T. A. Meeting Thursday

The December meeting of Prairieville P. T. A. was held Thursday evening, Dec. 5. The program given was largely that which had been prepared for the November meeting, which was not held because of contagious diseases in the neighborhood at that time.

The musical part of the program was opened by community singing, led by Miss Clara McCune, instructor in music at the Prairieville school. This was followed by a song by the primary pupils, Warren and Wayne Friedrichs sang two duets, "Away in a Manger" and "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star." Wayne then sang a solo, "Little Raindrops." All of these numbers were very well done. The boys are real singers.

Eileen Bradley sang very sweetly, "Let the Rest of the World Go By," and showed real talent in this number. It was followed by a song by the Intermediate pupils.

The remainder of the program was given over to reports by the three delegates who attended the district meeting at Rockford several weeks ago. The three teachers of the school were all sent as delegates and each of them attended a different sectional meeting and gave reports on it.

Miss Clara McCune reported on the morning session and the sectional meeting devoted to the subject of Presidents and Programs. Miss Richardson told of the sectional meeting on health and of Mrs. Whitens address in the afternoon on P. T. A. effectiveness.

Mrs. Pines account was of the sectional meeting on publicity and of the evening address by Miss Raymond on the Cleanliness Institute of New York. All of these reports were complete interesting and valuable to P. T. A. members.

The hospitality committee served jello, vanilla wafers and pop corn balls at the close of the program.

Wesleyan Missionary Meeting Tuesday

The Wesleyan Missionary Society of the Methodist church met on Tuesday evening Dec. 3rd at the beautiful new home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Mellett and a large number were present despite the wintry weather. The meeting was opened with a very impressive devotional service led by Mrs. Martha. The reading on the first Christmas Day by the dim candle light and the flickering of the flames on the hearth had an unusual solemnity, and ended with the beloved old Christmas carol "Holy Night, Silent Night," beautifully sung by Miss Alberta Peterson.

The president then called for the usual reports of the officers, and the Home and Foreign Mission topics were given by Mrs. Sheffield and Mr. Lancaster in their usual able manner. Dean Ball gave a fine violin solo and graciously responded to an encore.

Deming Hintz favored with a vocal solo which was also heartily encored. Mrs. Joseph Beech, formerly a missionary in China, was then introduced and gave a highly interesting and very inspiring address on conditions in China as viewed at first hand, for which the society extended a rising vote of thanks, as showing us how much worthwhile the missionary endeavor is.

The Christmas gifts brought by those present were voted to one of our children's institutions.

Mrs. Rorick had charge of the social hour and the committee served delicious refreshments, after which all dispersed at a late hour, feeling this had truly been a pleasant and profitable evening.

Kingdom-Mt. Union Aid Soc. Meeting: Boost Good Fellows

The Kingdom-Mt. Union Aid Society, met on Wednesday Dec. 4, in an all day meeting with Mrs. J. E. Hill, at her home east of Dixon.

A delicious chicken and biscuit dinner was enjoyed at noon.

The President, Mrs. Hill called the meeting to order in the afternoon.

The opening hymn was sung and this was followed by the reading of minutes and roll call by the secretary, Mrs. Hintz.

The program chairman was then given charge. The program consisted of a number of members, with Mrs. John Stanley as leader, who exhibited a display of handiwork suitable as Christmas gift suggestions and a lovely display of work was examined.

The second group of members under the leadership of Mrs. Hill, will exhibit another list of articles at the next meeting of the society.

The society has planned to hold a benefit card party at Stony Point School, for the Goodfellows Fund, on Friday evening, Dec. 13. A committee composed of Mrs. Edward Johnson, Mrs. David Heagy and Mrs. Theodore Hintz is to have charge.

Mrs. Lee Brink was appointed to have charge of a needy family in Dixon that the society is going to aid.

Other business was discussed but time did not allow for its completion. This unfinished business will be taken up at the next meeting that is to be held on Dec. 18th with Mrs. Arthur Hoban at her home east of Dixon.

A Christmas exchange bag will be a feature of that meeting and all members are urged to be present.

The meeting was then closed by singing a hymn and repeating the Lord's Prayer.

The guests departed late in the afternoon with expressions of thanks to their hostess for a lovely day spent at her home.

E. R. B. Christmas Dinner and Party

A very enjoyable affair was the Christmas dinner and party, given Thursday evening at the church parlors by the E. R. B. class of the Bible school of St. Paul's Lutheran church. Dinner was served at 6:30, class members and their families numbering ninety-five, being seated at small tables. Red candles and miniature Christmas tree, red and green streamers were the decorations used for the tables. The menu was most tempting and very much enjoyed, each one doing ample justice to the long list of good tidings. After the dinner a short business meeting was held. The class voted $10.00 to the home at Nachusa for the children there, also the sick and absent members to be remembered at Christmas in the usual way. A short program was then given. This was much enjoyed and was as follows:

Piano Duet—Misses Lenora and Edna Sweitzer.

Reading—Miss Marjorie Lampkin.

Vocal Duet—Misses Elsie and Irene Tool.

Reading—Mrs. Tobias Sweitzer.

A gayly decorated tree held the place of honor on the floor, and proved quite interesting to the younger guests. At the close of the program a great commotion was heard at door and upon investigation Santa Claus was found to be in waiting with a large collection of gifts.

After the distribution of the gifts by Mr. Santa Claus, the Pastor, Rev. Walter pronounced the Benediction, the guests soon leaving for their homes each one expressing their pleasure for a happy evening. The committees in charge of the whole evening are to be congratulated on the success of the affair.

Palmyra Mutual Aid in Meeting

The Palmyra Mutual Aid society held an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. Lila Hart and Mrs. Clara Goodrich Wednesday, Dec. 4. Nineteen members and one visitor did justice to the wonderful scramble dinner served at noon.

The business meeting was opened by all repeating the Lord's Prayer, followed by everyone singing "Joy to the World." Mrs. Bert Pearl read the Scripture lesson for the day. Secretary and treasurer's reports were read and approved. Mrs. Hart furnished a few questions for the afternoon. The next meeting, which will be the Christmas meeting, will be held in two weeks with Mrs. Bert Pearl, roll call to be answered to by Christmas greetings and Christmas quotations. The usual annual grab bag will be a feature for the day.

The J. F. F. club was happily entertained on Thursday evening by Miss Bernice Wilhelm at her home, with a picnic supper and Christmas party and bridge.

The picnic supper was the first feature of the evening, the tables being gay and Christmas-like in point of settings and red candles. Afterwards bridge was enjoyed, two tables, with Miss LaFerne Richardson winning the favor for high honors, and Miss Cora Koerper winning second favor; and Miss Lillian Koerper the consolation favor. ## A KIND WORD FOR CONGRESS.

At the risk of drawing a round of guffaws, we wish to say a kind word for Congress, as it starts another session—one of vital interest to American business, world peace and incidentally the Hoover administration.

Lately, much criticism has been directed at Congress. There seems to be a tendency to blame it for everything, from the stock market crash down the line. We are told that the nation's legislative body often argues over unimportant matters, that it is slow in providing needed legislation, and that its members are constantly playing politics.

Congress undoubtedly deserves considerable criticism. True, it is unwieldy, inefficient and is made up of men who often try to further their own political interests—which it might be said they have to do or they wouldn't stay there very long.

But there are several good points concerning Congress. Under our system of government, it still stands as a real guardian of the public interest, a forum where the efforts of special interests to gain privileges at the expense of the public are disclosed.

As you know, Congress consists of the Senate and the House and the present difference between these bodies strikingly illustrates one of the best points concerning the value of Congress.

The House works fast with an efficient party organization absolutely controlling legislation. In recent years, this has been true whether Republicans or Democrats are in power. Debate is limited, often to five-minute discussions by members. Possibly, it is well or nothing could be accomplished, but the House, far more than the Senate, lives up to the idea of how the average person thinks Congress should operate.

A House committee framed a tariff bill in short order and it was pushed through with only a few days' debate, despite the fact that it was a measure that was considered one of the two most important tasks of the special session. It then went to the Senate and what happened?

The Senate refused to be hurried and drew criticism from many groups of business men. Debate there still is practically unlimited. The Republican senators split into various groups. But the net result of all this was that the country gradually began to find out what was in the tariff bill, who wanted the higher tariffs and how they campaigned for them.

Thus followed the lobby investigation, including the discovery that Senator Bingham of Connecticut allowed a representative of a Connecticut manufacturers' association to sit in on the framing of the bill as his secretary and the fact that Washington is crowded with lobbyists, seeking governmental favors for private interests. Now, radical changes seem certain to be made in the tariff bill, but the important thing is that the spotlight of publicity has been turned on the mammoth Washington lobby. One lobbyist at the Geneva conference, apparently financed by shipbuilders and seeking to prevent agreements looking toward arms limitation, was denounced by President Hoover, but it was Senator Borah's curiosity concerning a suit growing out of that affair that led to the presidential denunciation.

The Senate has the habit of turning the light on the efforts of many to gain special privilege and on fraud and corruption. It was a Senate investigation that brought the sensational disclosures concerning government oil lands a few years ago.

For many years, nearly all disclosures of this kind have come from Congress. It is the tendency of all administrations, regardless of party affiliation, to conduct much public business in secret. Obviously a certain amount of secrecy is necessary. Conscientious executive officers often believe they can correct abuses more satisfactorily by not making the facts public, and thus avert possible criticism of their conduct.

The American public has a habit of correcting governmental abuses whenever the facts become known. Hence, Congress and particularly the Senate in acting as a reporter to the public of conditions in the federal government is performing a service that makes for better government. Congress should carefully consider all matters brought before it, and time and again the value of its decidedly slow method of enacting legislation has been demonstrated.

You'll hardly finish the installments on the Thanksgiving turkey before it will be time for the down payment on the one for Christmas—if any.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNOX

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

On over the ice the Tinites sped, all clinging to the little sled. The elf was still up in the lead, his wings both flapping fast. It was a pleasant sight to see the Tinites bubbling over with glee. They liked the ride and wondered just how long 'twas going to last.

Then to the elf wee Scouty cried, "You say we're bound for Santa's 'Please tell us more about this ride. land. How far is that from here? And will there be much ice and snow away up where we're going to go? I hope that everything is safe and we have naught to fear."

"Don't worry," said the little elf. "If I am game to go myself you surely ought to be as brave and gladly go along. Naught but the best of things you'll find so chase the fretting form your mind. I promise you quite faithfully that nothing will go wrong."

They shortly left the frozen stream. The trip was almost like a dream. Up over some banks of snow they went. Said Scouty, "This is great. It feels like real far north to me. I'll bet some wondrous things we'll see. Imagine meeting Santa Claus. Why, I can hardly wait."

Then Scouty cried out, "Hip, huray! I see a great big entrance way. Our trip is out in vain. The sign says 'Santa's Toyland.' See? I'm just as happy as can be." And, sure enough, the sign was there. It stood out very plain.

The next thing that the Tinites knew some little elfs came running through the entranceway. They shouted loudly, "Welcome, Tinymites!" Then one exclaimed: "Hang on! Don't fall!" They picked the bunch up, sled and all and started into Toyland, which was filled with wondrous sights.

CONSTITUTION RATIFIED

* One hundred and forty-two years ago today, on Dec. 7, 1787, Delaware ratified the United States Constitution, the first state to take such action.

Some of the states followed Delaware's example and ratified the Constitution promptly, but in others vigorous opposition developed.

It was only after a protracted struggle that the ninth state, New Hampshire, approved the Constitution on June 21, 1788, and by that event it went into force. The two important states of Virginia and New York followed soon after with their endorsement, leaving only Rhode Island and North Carolina in the anomalous position of not being members of the new nation which claimed jurisdiction over the territory.

Today also is the anniversary of the burning of Concordia, Miss. by Federal troops on Dec. 7, 1862. On the same day the Confederate cruiser Alabama captured the Ariel.

Daily Health Talk

SUCCESSFUL VENTILATION

By Manton M. Carrick, M. D.
Director of Public Health,
Dallas, Texas.

This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Gorgas Memorial are at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Thanks to experiments along the lines of preventive medicine, we have pigeonholed the exploded theory that the percentage of carbonic acid gas and organic impurities afford a correct guide for efficient or inefficient ventilation. This archaic idea is no longer given credence. We know that successful ventilation depends upon the prevention of stagnation of body heat, on the one hand, and of the uncomfortable chilling of the body from undue exposure, on the other. The real cause is, therefore, not chemical, but physical.

We have found in Open-Air Schools, for instance, where we have access to Nature's ideal activities—that is, the heat produced by the sun, and the cooling and evaporating influence of outside air in motion—that ventilation is perfect. The efficient regulation of the body heat by the evaporation produced by the current of air experienced outdoors rapidly changes the volume of air immediately surrounding the body. Increases absorption and eliminates and stimulates digestion.

The normal composition of air by volume is nitrogen 79 parts, oxygen 20.96 parts, carbon dioxide, or carbonic acid gas, .04, with just a trace of ammonia. Even in the most densely crowded school room, the changed condition of these gases never results in a sufficient increase of carbon-dioxide or a sufficient decrease of oxygen, to have ill effects upon those in the room.

The normal temperature of the body is 98.2-5 degrees Fahrenheit. This balance is regulated by the thermal or heat centers of the brain, the balance of which, in turn, is regulated through the oxidation and combustion of our foods during the process of digestion, and also through muscular action. We complete this system of radiation through the skin, the sweat glands and the respiratory tract.

The child in an ill ventilated school-room is bound to experience all sorts of discomforts. He has headache, is irritable, dizzy, stupid, indolent, mischievous, and obstreperous by turns. No child can be a model pupil unless his physical well-being is looked after very closely. Too much stress cannot be laid upon the vital subject of ventilation.

We have overcome heat with insufficient humidity in our homes, by means of humidifiers. The same must be done in every school-room if we wish to have a healthy race of children.

The proper temperature for a school room is no more than 68 degrees; 65 to 68 is better. If a child complains of being cold, there is insufficient humidity in the air. This causes excessive evaporation of the body to meet the demands of the unduly dry air, thus causing a lowering of bodily temperature and its accompanying chilly sensation. The amount of humidity is quite as essential as the question of temperature. This should be between 45 and 55 per cent, with a temperature of between 65 and 68 degrees.

Absences from school on account of colds will be fewer, and diseases of the respiratory tract will be greatly lessened, if more attention is paid to all these details.

EXPLORERS TELL OF HARDSHIPS IN COLD NORTHLAND

Canadian Party Back To Civilization Today Tell Story

Cranberry Portage, Man., Dec. 6.—(AP)—The hardships faced by Col. C. D. H. MacAlpine and his party of seven aerial prospectors in their two months' wandering in the far north were told today with the return of the party to civilization.

Col. MacAlpine, president of Dominion Explorers, Inc., and four members of the expedition arrived yesterday in two airplanes from Stony Rapids, the last lap out on their journey from Cambridge Bay on Victoria Island.

The most trying part of the entire experience, said Col. MacAlpine, came after they had been guided by Eskimos to the south side of Dease Straits and found open sea water between them and the Hudson's Bay Company post at Cambridge Bay. The post stretches some twenty miles along the shore, but eight miles of water separated them from it and they were forced to wait eight weeks for the water to freeze before they could pass.

Food Supply Gone
Fish and game were scarce; the caribou had gone south, and when the party finally succeeded in crossing the ice all their food except a few frozen fish had been consumed. Major Robert P. Baker, one of the rescued party, said that a jutting piece of main land that reaches out farthest towards Cambridge Bay had been named by them "Peechuk Point," the Eskimo name for "all gone." He said the name aptly described their condition when they finally crossed the ice to the post, as all their supplies were gone.

The MacAlpine party had been engaged in an aerial prospecting expedition for mineral deposits when their two planes were forced down by lack of fuel. One of the most extensive air searches ever made in the north was started before news was received of the party's discovery by wandering Eskimos.

Woman's Club Notes
The Women's Club met Monday afternoon with Mrs. Elizabeth Durkes. The topic of the day was "Franklin Grove, We Love You," and the program was presented under the Department of Community Service, with Mrs. Ruby Reigle, chairman.

The roll call response, "Name a Beauty-spot of Franklin Grove or Vicinity" was as usual of great interest. Many spots of real beauty native to this vicinity were enumerated and described, and it was quite noticeable that the beauty of our trees contribute largely to every one, either as individuals trees or as groups in special locations, or in our beautiful grove bordering town.

A short business session was held and it was decided by a vote of the club to give up the January social and to have a special afternoon meeting instead. The date and place will be announced later. A book purchased by the club for the library, entitled, "Homes of Famous Americans" had been received by the committee and was turned over to the librarian Miss Clara Lahman.

The program then followed. Each member had been asked to write a paper, "Why I Believe in and Boost for Franklin Grove." Ten papers were prepared and read, telling of reasons why the writers love the home town and believe in it. The reasons and manner of presentation varied as much as the writers, but the opinion was unanimous that Franklin Grove is a good home town and that its welfare and progress depends on its citizens, collectively and individually.

It was hard for the judge to decide on the best paper, but the choice went to one presented by Mrs. Hanson, who had written in a very beautiful way, how Franklin Grove impresses a stranger, which after all is the real test of a community. The ten papers gathered into one booklet would form a real tribute to our home town, which would increase in value and interest as years go by. The following original poem was contributed by Miss Maude Conlon as her share in the program:

Franklin Grove We Love You
Franklin Grove, we boost you,
Though our numbers be but few—
A quiet little town,
But the best village anywhere around
Ashton has its paved streets, sewers and thus.

But Franklin will always be the "upper crust"
For look at its people—
They rank higher than the church steeples.

And its roads with the bumps,
Only give us a few more "humps",
Look at its stores,
They are always crowded to the doors.

A library we also boast,
With the genial librarian as host;
A Woman's Club, active and spry,
Gave Franklin Park the railroad nearby.

A beautiful pine tree there you'll see
As the children's Christmas tree in years to be,
Scores of other things make this town

A "beauty-spot" of world renown
Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Hausen entertained a number of friends Tuesday evening. Dinner was enjoyed in the Lee Center Congregational church, the remainder of the evening was spent at the Hausen home where Bridge was enjoyed.

To Lovers of Children.
On December 8th, "International Golden Rule Day" is to be observed. An unsectarian organization has been effected with philanthropic and just worthy officers, who are making an appeal for child-welfare. Millions are dying in China from starvation. An appeal comes from Governor Roosevelt in Porto Rico and many in our own mountains and mining districts are undernourished. May we not give of our abundance, or at least economize in our Sunday menu so we can sympathize materially with those less fortunate? An opportunity will be given all so inclined to use the Golden Rule and leave your thank-offering at one of the banks any time before the 15th of this month. Please designate, if you prefer, where your contribution shall go, whether to Chicago, Porto Rico, our home country or elsewhere. We are informed that none of the money will go for expenses. Charity begins at home, but should not end there.

Welfare Committee of the Brethren Church.

Rev. Chester M. Irwin of Sterling was the speaker of the evening. He brought a very inspiring and entertaining message that was most thoroughly enjoyed by all. It was decided to hold the regular club meeting on the second Tuesday night of each month, and that there should be no membership dues, but instead a free will offering, with a minimum of 25 cents to defray the actual expense of each meeting.

Committees were appointed on getting a name for the club, on arrangements, program and membership. A special committee of ministers was appointed to secure, if possible, Dr. Shannon for a Sunday night Union service to be held some time in February. Making his annual report today, Prohibition Commissioner Doran disclosed that 200,832,051 proof gallons were produced in the fiscal year ending last June 30 and that the figure was 31,682,051 more than the output of the preceding twelve month period.

During the year 8,892,247 gallons were withdrawn from warehouses after tax payments, an increase of 217,266 gallons as compared with the previous year. During the year a total of 1616,658 gallons of distilled spirits including brandy were withdrawn from bonded warehouses an increase of 3,860 gallons, while there were 9,149,440 more gallons of cereal beverages produced than in the year previous.

During the year 509 wineries, a decrease of 56, operated and produced 11,381,990 gallons of wine, an increase of 6,459,373 gallons. The quantity of wine removed on payment of tax for non-beverage and sacramental purposes totaled 3,004,200 gallons, while on last June 30 there were 23,138,754 gallons of wine in warehouses.

Doran reviewed the progress made by the Prohibition Bureau during the year which had been previously described in the annual report of Secretary Mellon. At the close of the fiscal year he said there were 4,664 employees in the service of the bureau, an increase from 4,396 at the end of the previous year.

Some Industrial Aphorisms By John Emmett Edgerton

(Mr. Edgerton, President of a woolen mill in Lebanon, Tenn., has just been elected president of the National Association of Manufacturers for the tenth consecutive term. His annual address, from which the extracts are made, is always as much of a sermon to the manufacturers as it is a plea in their behalf.)

I am not so much concerned in the manufacturer obtaining his rights as I am in him performing his obligations.

In industry more than anywhere else within recent years the spirit of human brotherhood has experienced its greatest and most numerous triumphs.

Industry's multiplied stockholders are now estimated to number between twenty and thirty millions—a fact which indicates that practically every family in the nation shares ownership and control of its industry.

The natural concomitant of this evolutionary process of democratization in ownership has been a natural growth in the humanization of both management and workers.

The working masses of our country have become more responsible than any other single composite force for the maintenance of right principles in industry. If left alone by agitating exploiters and by professional and insincere up-lifters there are no problems or differences which they and those who employ them cannot and will not work out by themselves.

Industry needs no privileges and requires no favors at the hand of government or society. The rank and file of manufacturers want none and are asking for none.

Too many manufacturers are overlooking the fact that the success of their business is determined more by what is taking place outside their offices than by internal efficiencies.

These citizens and manufacturers in particular who do not keep intelligently informed on what is happening at the chief centers of activity will not be long in meeting the ghosts of their negligences.

Industry is always the first and greatest sufferer from the delinquencies and deficiencies of social and political conduct.

Society in general continues through political processes to unload its own obligations upon industry, penalizing at every opportunity the silently rebuking superiorities of accomplishment.

The greatest problem of civilization today is to accomplish a proper balance between employment and leisure. Study the sources of radical thought today and you will find them for the most part in the discontented houses of leisure and the leaky tents of the unemployed.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
MRS. EMMA HOGARTH, said to keep a money hoard in her room on the second floor of Mrs. Rhodes' house. It was a room to which BONNIE DENVER, "the" detective, assisted with the help of EMIL SEVIER, former boarder whom Mrs. Hogarth accused of trying to rob her, is sought.

CORA BARKER, theater pianist, thought to have had an affair with Sevier, is arrested as a material witness. Other boarders under suspicion are: HENRY DOWD, NORMA FAIRBANK, ALBERT STILES, and a bank robber who had quarreled with Mrs. Hogarth; BERT MAGNUS, amateur second violer, and DAISY SHEPHERD.

Dundee learns from papers in Mrs. Hogarth's trunk that the SALLY GRAVES who wrote her once a month from New York was her daughter and that she had lived in dread of the return of Sally's husband, DAN GRIFFIN, sought for embezzlement. Recalling the mysterious details of Sally's murder in New York, Dundee concludes Griffin murdered both women and that he is or has been in the Rhodes' house. An old rail ticket envelope with DUNDUE'S name on it, showing he left New York June 3, directs suspicion against him.

When Sevier captured, he admits having planned to rob the old woman Saturday night, saying he climbed to her room, saw her, and took the money.

Dundee goes for Cora, who is to confront Sevier and finds her dead—strangled to death between one and two o'clock—with her own hands of hair. Did Sevier, thinking Cora had "squealed," come back for revenge?

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXVIII

AT half-past eight that Wednesday morning an exhausted young detective was hauled back to consciousness by an urgent but kindly hand upon his shoulder. He sat up, dazed to find himself not in his bed but in a creaking swivel chair, and that his pillow had been his own arms crossed upon an untidy desk.

"Wake up, boy!" Lieutenant Strawn greeted him with brusque sympathy. "Better get a bite of breakfast and get into bed. You'll need some rest before the double inquest this afternoon."

"You're back?" Bonnie Dundee ran a shaking hand through his disordered black hair and blinked dazed blue eyes at his chief.

"Sure! Just got in. Got a morning paper at the station. I'm sorry about Cora Barker. Have you got a confession out of that swine, Sevier, yet? The paper says he's been on the grill since he was nabbed at 2 o'clock this morning."

Dundee shook his head gloomily as he rubbed his aching arms. "No. I was at him hammer and tongs for more than two hours after we discovered Cora's murder, but he stuck to his story. Fainted when I broke the news to him, but in between he kept denying he'd been any nearer the Rhodes' House than the spot where Patrolmen Callahan and Lunt picked him up."

"And what was his story?" Strawn demanded.

Dundee told him briefly, wearily, what Sevier had admitted: that he had gone to the Rhodes' House on Saturday night at half-past 11, intending to make one more effort to enlist Cora Barker's aid in robbing Mrs. Hogarth; that he had waited in the greenhouse until Cora had entered the boarding house at 10 minutes after 12; and that he had then climbed up the rose trellis to the upstairs porch, that he had seen Cora in Mrs. Hogarth's room, had realized the old lady was dead, murdered; and that he had scrambled back down the rose trellis in mad fright of being caught on the scene of a crime he had not committed.

"ROT!" Strawn spat contemptuously beside his desk. "He's guilty as hell. Smart, too. Frankly admitted everything he was sure you already had against him, what you told him you had on him. And he killed Cora Barker because he was sure she'd told the police the whole truth against him, or to keep her from doing so. He knew he couldn't stay under cover forever—probably his girl forced him out—and he figured he could only swing once anyway, and he might as well get even with Cora before he got his rope necktie. Remember, he knew she'd been arrested as a material witness, and he had no way of knowing just how much she had already told."

"But why would Cora let him kiss her?" Dundee asked wearily.

"Maybe he stole the kiss—then kept on kissing till the braids were tied so tight she could never object again to anybody's kisses," Strawn surmised callously.

"Don't!" Strawn shuddered. "You're all shot, Bonnie." Strawn was brusquely contrite. "Better get back to the Rhodes' House to breakfast and to bed. . . . By the way, see if you can work that speech stunt again, to keep the boarders where they are until after the inquest today, anyway. There's just a chance, of course, that something may develop this afternoon that will make us want to keep them all together. Or maybe I'll better drop in and make it an official order."

"I wish you would," Dundee admitted. "I don't feel up to pleading with anyone to stay in that house any longer."

"Murder Mansion," the paper calls it," Strawn grinned. "See?" "Thanks—I'd rather not," Dundee repudiated the newspaper with a gesture of distaste. "By the way, we're holding Sevier as a material witness, not on a charge of murder yet. The district attorney advised it, so we could get Sevier's testimony at the inquest this afternoon. . . . Well, I believe I'll go now."

"Good idea," Strawn agreed. "What does Dr. Price say?"

"That Cora was strangled between one and two o'clock. He got busy immediately on the autopsy."

"Good man—Price. . . . And what else has Turner been able to dig up? Any residents on the block who saw or heard anything?"

"Absolutely nothing, so far, to prove Sevier or any other prowler was on the scene of the crime," Dundee replied heavily.

"Hm. Eight and Main—that's where they nabbed him, isn't it? Is near enough for any jury. Just four blocks from the Rhodes' House," Strawn exulted. "Well, get along with you, Bonnie. The case is solved, whether Sevier confesses or not. Get some sleep now. You've earned it."

The blow that dropped Glick to the canvas for nine seconds was a left to the jaw.

Grogan's left hooks sent Glick into frequent clinches, where he was most effective.

Livestock Show To Close This Evening

Chicago, Dec. 7.—(UP)—Vari-hued ribbons fluttered as the champions of the livestock world neighed, mooed, squealed or bleated a melody of farewell at final events of the International Livestock Exposition today.

Thousands of children, the guests of the show, looked over the long strings of prize animals, while farmers and livestock men of the nation checked up on awards of judges in the $5,000,000 display of farm, range, poultry yard and stable.

Sadness mingled with joy in many of the four-H boys and girls, who said a last good-bye to pigs, calves, steers and fowls they had pampered as pets while grooming them for the show.

Tabulation of results showed that the Iowa State College outdistanced other educational institutions in honors, taking 63 awards, five of them championships, four reserve awards, 23 first, 15 second, and 16 third prizes. Purdue University was second. Michigan State College of Lansing scored 10 championship honors, more than any other school.

With only tonight's horse show yet to come, Aaron M. Frank of Portland, Ore., and John R. Thompson of

Glick's Comeback Was Not Success

San Francisco, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Tommy Grogan of Omaha had risen a notch nearer the lightweight summit today as the result of a decisive victory over the veteran Joe Glick of Brooklyn. Grogan won a decision over Glick in ten rounds here last night.

Glick staged as nery a comeback as ever was shown in a ring when he took the tenth round after being down for the count of nine in the preceding frame. His rally, however, was not sufficient to overcome the lead compiled by Grogan early in the bout.

The Nebraskan was given the first three and the eighth and ninth rounds. The sixth and seventh were

The nerve-shattered young detective was lurking, unsteadily toward the door when he remembered something that had once seemed of vast importance.

"I forgot to ask you about your trip, chief," he confessed, his tired eyes brightening a bit. "Turner says you wired that you hadn't been very successful, but I suppose you got a description of Dan Griffin?"

"Why worry about Griffin now, kid?" Strawn chuckled indulgently. "It was a swell theory, but Emil Sevier's thrown the monkey wrench into it. The detective from New York arrived in Belton just before I left, and I turned over all the information I'd been able to collect, which wasn't much."

"I believe I'll sleep better if my curiosity is satisfied," Dundee persisted, with his disarming grin, as he again slumped his weary body into Strawn's swivel chair.

"All right, boy. It's your sleep you're losing!" Strawn conceded, leaning back in the straight chair and hooking his thumbs in his suspenders. "Remember the Belton chief told us over the phone that their police headquarters had been destroyed by fire two years ago? Well, Griffin's fingerprints went up in smoke, as well as the description of him they had on file. So I had to paddle around and pick up what I could at the bank and from neighbors who had known the Harknesses and Griffin."

"And what was he like?" Dundee urged, his fatigue almost forgotten.

"Ask me another!" Strawn grinned ruefully. "It was funny but everybody I questioned had a slightly different picture of Dan Griffin in mind. That frequently happens, of course, after a crime has been committed, and the criminal has skipped. Some folks'll say he looked like a fiend incarnate, others that 'you'd never have guessed to look at him,' etc. Same way in Belton."

"I finally doped it out that Dan Griffin must have been so ordinary-looking a young man that his face made no deep impression on anyone. For instance, one chap at the bank said he had blue eyes; another that he had pale gray eyes; another that they were hazel; and other vowed they were light brown. And some said he had sort of sandy hair; others that it was a kind of darkish blond. He didn't wear a mustache or glasses—that much they all agree on. And he was neither tall nor short, but their estimates of his height varied from five feet seven to five feet 10."

"Any doctor or dentist who might help to identify him?" Dundee persisted.

"It's a small town, and I can vouch every doctor and dentist who lived there when Griffin did. By the absence of evidence, he must have been a healthy guy, with teeth that didn't need tinkering on."

"Handwriting?"

"Sure!" Strawn was mildly triumphant as he pulled out his wallet. "Got some old deposit slips from the bank, bearing his signature, or, rather his initials, and some notations he made on scratch paper. They had other samples of his handwriting, but had turned them over to the police, along with the card he'd filled out when he went to work for the bank. They were burned, too, of course, but you've got his 'John Henry' there all right. Keep 'em as a souvenir of the 'bad penny' that didn't turn up!"

"THANKS!" Dundee replied quietly, as he placed the papers in his own pocket.

"Don't think I'm trying to ride you, Dundee," Strawn apologized awkwardly. "You've done mighty good work on this case, and I want you with me on the next one."

"Thanks," Dundee replied again, and thrust out his hand. There was no use in arguing. It would only sound foolish for him to persist. "But why, why did Mrs. Hogarth call Sevier a 'bad penny,' when she hated and feared him? Why didn't she scream?" But until those questions were answered to his own satisfaction, the Hogarth case and the Barker case would not be closed, in his eyes, at least.

"Say! I nearly forgot it, but here's something you may be interested in. The newspapers will love it," Strawn halted the boy at the door. "A picture of the old lady and her daughter, when they were Mrs. Emma Harkness and Miss Sally Harkness."

Dundee almost snatched the cabinet photograph from his chief's hand. The picture was dated by the photographer—1921, the year before Sally Harkness' marriage to Dan Griffin. The mother, dressed in black silk, overflowed the ornate chair in which the photographer had seated her, but her bulk had been many pounds less

DIEGEL DEFEATS THE GREAT HAIG; TO MEET FARRELL

National Professional Golf Championship To Be Decided

BY PAUL B. ZIMMERMAN (Associated Press Sports Writer)
Los Angeles, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The great conjurer of the links, Leo Diegel, whose swinging clubs, as magic wands carried him through to triumph over Walter Hagen yesterday will put his skill against the threat of Smiling Johnny Farrell today in the final match of his Professional Golfers' Association tournament.

Farrell will be seeking his first P. G. A. crown on the trying Hillcrest course which saw the championship hopes of both the Great Haig and his fellow townsman from Detroit Al Wirtz lost in the yawning traps and on the treacherous greens.

While the fitful putting of the Great Haig had much to do with yesterday's defeat on the thirty-fourth green 3 and 2, the fact that fate dealt kindly with Diegel contributed largely to Sir "Larruping Leo."

Hagen, five times holder of the national crown, watched the immitable Diegel hole long putts when his own attempts failed by inches. This told the story. Hagen's drives were most consistent, while the pair took turns placing their approach shots close to the pin.

A lead of one up as they went to the eighth tee was smothered by a bad six for Hagen when the champion's approach, headed for a sand-trap, was deflected by the heel of one of the 5,000 members of the gallery, sending it back into the fairway. Diegel won the hole with a par four.

From that moment on to the finish, the British open champion trailed although his late rallies on the twenty-second and twenty-third, and again in the closing moments of the match, threatened to unnerve his opponent.

In winning, Diegel continued the sub-par game which has marked his entire play of the tourney. Starting off with a 140 to take second honors in the qualifying round, he set a new competitive course record for a 64 medal, five under par the following day.

PANTHERS WILL SEEK REVENGE NEW YEAR'S DAY

Hope To Defeat Southern California At Pasadena Bowl

BY WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN (Associated Press Sports Writer)
New York, Dec. 7.—(AP)—When the champion Pittsburgh football team lines up against Southern California on New Year's Day, the Panthers will be seeking the second victory for a strictly eastern invader in the history of this post-season classic. Athletic seaboard teams have figured in no fewer than seven of the thirteen Pasadena conflicts to date, but have only Harvard's 7 to 6 victory over Oregon on January 1, 1920, to match against defeats for Brown, Pennsylvania, Penn State and Pittsburgh and ties for Washington and Jefferson and the Navy.

The east was last represented at Pasadena two years ago when an undefeated Pittsburgh eleven was shaded, 7 to 6, by Stanford. The Panthers welcomed the chance to return to the California front this season, hoping to defeat Southern California by a more convincing margin than Notre Dam's 13 to 12 triumph at Chicago last month. The Trojans face a regularly-scheduled game against another Pittsburgh eleven next week when Carnegie Tech will be seen in the Coliseum. Pittsburgh halted the plaid by 34 to 13.

Of the four major sections of the United States, the south leads in the Pasadena classic with two victories and a tie in three appearances. The middle west stands next with two victories and one defeat—triumphs for Michigan and Notre Dame against a reverse for Ohio State. The home defenders of the Pacific slope have done no better than five victories, five defeats and three ties in the thirteen game. The east trails with its one triumph, four setbacks and two ties.

GAMES IN SOUTH
Atlanta, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Southern stadia opened their gates today for football's final fling of the year. The Georgia-Georgia Tech battle, a Dixie classic since 1893, was the attraction at Athens, Ga., while Oregon and Florida engaged in a huge wooden bowl erected at Miami, Fla., Madison Square Garden interests.

Throughout the Carolinas intense interest was aroused by the North Carolina-Duke skirmish at Durham, N. C.

The University of South Carolina visited Knoxville to play Tennessee. Western Maryland, one of the few unbeaten schools in the country, went to Baltimore to play the University of Maryland.

Southwestern Louisiana and Louisiana Poly lock horns at Ruston, La., in the last game of the season in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association. William and Mary meets Hampden Sidney at Richmond, Va., and Centenary and Loyola battle at New Orleans.

Coaches Interpret Cage Rules Today

Chicago, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Unable to make up schedules for the 1929 season, Western Conference basketball coaches today spent their odd moments agreeing on uniform interpretations of the rules.

The "double referee" system, with the referee and umpire having equal authority on the floor, again will be used.

One step will be permitted at the start of a dribble, as previously, but more leniency will be shown by the officials when a player takes the ball on the run. The coaches also decided that a player might tip the ball against the backboard and play the ball again himself, this ruling being consistent with the interpretation which permits the player a second dribble after he has dribbled and hit the backboard.

The umpire was assigned the duty of watching for fouls on the tipoff or on jump balls, since the referee's eye usually is on the ball.

It no longer will be possible to score five points on a play during which a player is fouled in the act of shooting. The ball will be taken back to center whether the second foul shot is successful or missed.

It was decided that one play must ensue before a player, taken out of the game, may return. The coaches also went on record as disapproving stalling, believing that the practice will damage interest in the game.

Hold Up Permit For Art Shires' Fight

Chicago, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The professional pugilistic career of Charles Arthur (The Great) Shires, White Sox first baseman, appears about to die a-borning.

Maj. Gen. John V. Clinnin, Chairman of the Illinois State Athletic Commission, has issued an order holding up the permit for Shires to engage in a preliminary bout with one mysterious Dan Daly of Cleveland at White City Monday night, on two counts.

The first count is that Gen. Clinnin and the Commission, in spite of diligent search, have failed to find anyone who has met a mysterious Dan Daly of Cleveland, either socially or fictitiously, and there will be no fight until a member of the Commission views such a person in fighting costume.

The second count is that Fred Gardner, a member of the Commission saw Shires in a workout, and leaned toward the opinion that Charles Arthur was too much inclined to thrust a salient part of his anatomy unprotected into the path of his spartan punches, and is not a real good fighter.

Final action will be taken tomorrow when the mysterious man Dan Daly is to arrive in Chicago.

MANNEQUINS AT 60
London.—At the age when most women retire from active life, three ambitious grandmothers of 60 are training at a fashionable West End school to be mannequins. They are competing with college girls and boys. In a recent big dress parade, the three aged ladies were the most admired participants.

Exquisite Cabinet! Unsurpassed Tone! Giant Power! —Everything!

This is how Screen-Grid works—as Atwater Kent uses it!

SCREEN-GRID overcomes an old problem in radio amplification. With the old type of tubes, power had to be cut down to prevent feed-back and oscillation. The fourth element—the "Screen"—in the Screen-Grid tube prevents this feed-back, so that the new tubes, as Atwater Kent uses them, develop ten times as much amplification per tube—and a hundred times the power, with no hum!
